The reporter asked for the names and addresses of some of the pupils so that he might communicate with them personally. Several hundred were offered, from which the reporter selected eightyfour. The replies received were more than sufficient to convince the most skeptical in regard to the wonderful benefits to be derived from this mighty power. There were absolutely no fail-ures. All had learned to make practical use of the sciences. The following extracts are taken at random from the letters, for the benefit of readers:

My own father could not have convinced me of its wonderful power if I had not actually tested it for myssif, I consider a knowledge of it invaluable to those who wish to achieve success and live up to the full measure of their possibilities."

Mrs. Effie M. Watson, Martinsville, Ind., writes: "Hypothism opens the road to beakin kappiness and prosterity. It should be studied by every one. I would not part with my knowledge of it for any amount. The instructions have developed within me a force of character, an ability to indicence and control people that I did not dream I could acquire."

SOCIETY OF PEDAGOGY MEETS. Teachers Hear Lecture on Kinder garten Principles.

The Society of Padagogy began its series

The Society of Padagogy began its series of meetings for the session of 1900-1901 in the High School auditorium yesterday. Superintendent of Schools F. Louis Soldan delivered an address on "The Principles of the Kindergarten" to an audience which filled the room to overflowing.

Not less than 500 principals, teachers and students attended the initial meeting, and the officers of the society expect a largely increased membership for the winter, Meetings will be held in the High School building on the first and third Saturdays of each month from now until June. The series of lectures for the session comprehends every subject of interest to teachers.

Women suffer-atmosphere of St. Louis entertainments-perhaps not within the next six months, but certainly by another season. Young women who have left their school days be-hind for one, two or even a greater number of years are forming classes—always con-genial friends—for the study of Italian, Seasolah and particularly French, Most of Spanish and particularly French. Most of them had a smattering in their finishing school days, but this time it is with maturer purposes that they propose to work.

French plays are being discussed. This may bring about a revival of the old Dramatic Club, which has peacefully slumbered for two seasons, and since the departure of Mrs. E. Hope Norton—in Dramatic Club days Miss Carr—from its ranks

AT THE POLO GAME.

Polo at the Country Club brought out the folio at the Country Club prought out the fashionables yesterday afternoon. Crowds of people there certainly were not, but the quality was the thing. As that classic ani-mal the March hare is remembered to have said upon one occasion, "It was the best butter."

Barnes wore black cloth with black velvet plaque.

Mrs. Wheeler of the Grand Avenue Hotel entertained a party of women at a noon breakfast at the clubhouse. They afterwards remained for the game. Mrs. Russell Harding, Mrs. James L. Ford, Mrs. A. C. Goodbar, Mrs. Harry Lewis and Mrs. Gordon were Mrs. Wheeler's guests. Charles H. Turner, who flitted from group to group all afternoon, took the party back to town in his car "Kinloch" after the game.

Harry Hayward had two Chicago friends with him—Mr. and Mrs. George McDonalds. Mrs. McDonalds wore black cloth appliqued in red panne, outlined with a little gold; and a large black plaque. The McDonalds are well known in town. They were joined by Will Haarstick, who drove out in his polo cart behind a gray cob; and by Alex Primm and Harry Turner, who were merely spectators and not in either golf clothes or polo togs.

Miss Edith January came with her sister,
Mrs. Henry Editott, wearing a stunning

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Whittemore and Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore, Br., joined the hill-side party when the game was half over.

Miss Mary Kennard came out with half a dozen girls—Miss Carol West, Miss Maude Niedringhaus, Miss Bessie Clark, Miss Janet Lee and Miss Bessie Semple, the latter excorted by D. H. Clark and wearing a remarkably pretty white cloth toilet, with large hat trimmed in pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mudd had Mrs. L. D. Garth with them. They tarried awhile on the slope, then joined the grand stand contingent. Mrs. Mudd was in dark blue.

Charles Pope O'Failon escorted a pretty girl and spent the afternoon with her on the edge of the hill, intent on the game and its finish.

was chaperoned by Mrs. George Wallace Niedringhaus, who wore deep blue crepe and lace.

Mr. and Mrs. William McMillan had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. James McMillan of Detroit. Mrs. James McMillan was one of the conspicuously pretty women of the afternoon, in a pale blue foulard figured in silver, and trimmed in quantites of lace, the whole enveloped in a long cloak of black taffeta, appliqued in large black figures. Sarruel Cuppies, who came over from the university dedication with Mr. and Mrs. McKittriek, and many others, joined the McMillan party on the plazzas. Doctor and Mrs. Campbell Smith spent the entire afternoon on the somewhat primitive seats of the grand stand. Mrs. Smith's little red jacket of some odd, knitted material with red taffeta sleeves, made a bright spot on the lawn. There were very few red coats in evidence, except those worn by two or three golfers, who did not stroil houseward until after the game. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hebard were among those who neglected the polo for golf. Mrs. Hebard is wearing a very pretty pleated plaid skirt for playing this fall. Colorel James Ford and his daughter. Miss Elsie Ford, joined the breakfast party early in the game. Miss Ford wore a coat of black taffeta, with deep collar of ecre lace.

Mrs. Ed Simmons, in pale sage-green or people there certainly were not, out the quality was the thing. As that classic animal the March hare is remembered to have said upon one occasion, "It was the best butter."

Interest in polo per se remains to be worked up in St. Louis. A Chicago guest commented yesterday afternoon upon the small size of the audience in comparison with the large number of club members,
and declared that at an Onwentsia Club game as many people assemble to see the practice preliminary as were out yesterday to watch the match. And the Onwentsia is no larger a club than the Country.

But those people who did venture saw a good game, enjoyed a delightful autumnat afternoon on the sloping hillside and found each other's conversation pleasant and entertaining.

Dinner followed in the dining-rooms, as the weather was quite too cool to admit of dining on the piazzas. Later came an informal dance, with the Chicago players and those women from the Windy City who came down as honored guests.

Mr. Marshall M. Kirkman, who refereed
the game yesterday, brought down a dozen persons from Chicago in his private car yesterday morning. They were: Mmes.
W. Bruce Kirkman and Marshall M. Kirkman, whose husbands were in the game;
Mr. G. C. King, Mr. and Mrs. W. Vernon Booth, J. Cary Evans, E. J. Williams and Walter W. Ross. Most of these viewed the afternoon's sport from the tiny grand stand at the west end of the grounds. The women were in tailor gowns exclusively.

One of the very early afternoon cars took out L. D. Dozler, who promptly donned bis golf fiannels and disappeared on the links for the afternoon. He came into the clubhouse just as the polo game ended. Mr. Dosier had some clerical friends in charge.

Daniel S. Holmes, his youngest daughter,
Miss Mabel Holmes, and her guest, Miss Sullivan was in black broadcloth with violet panne toque, while Miss Holmes wore pale gray camel's hair, the Eton coat over a blouse of blue silk and lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Nugent, Mr. and Mrs.
Byron Nugent and Mr. and Mrs. Henry G.

Mrs. Browni

lace.

Mrs. Ed Simmons, in pale sage-green crepe, lace and black velvet. Bert Filley, Mrs. Bert Walker, Mrs. Wear and Edward Simmons were together on the hillside.

Mr. and Mrs. Hehry Semple drove out with their daughters, Miss Semple and Miss Bertha Semple.

Mr. and Mrs. Hehry Semple drove out with their daughters, Miss Semple and Miss Bertha Semple.

David R. Francis, H. B. Collins, Charles Wiggins, Byron Nugent and several men friends watched the game interestedly until its close.

Will Maffitt drove Miss Ethel Richards out in his trap. Mrs. Tom Richards of New York, formerly Miss Agnes Dodd, found plenty of friends on the lawn. She had Miss Ruth Dodd, her sister, with her. The bride wore tan foulard and lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Turner, Miss Adele Hart and Mrs. Hunt Turner, Miss Adele Hart and Mrs. Hart were in the grand stand. Charles Scudder, who is not playing on the team this fall, gravitated from grand stand to clubhouse and round to the paddock.

One pleasantly conspicuous party was that of the James Drummonds. They arrived late with their New York guest, Miss Draper, and Miss West. Mrs. Drummond wore ecru crepe, Flemish lace and pink panne, covered with a long tan cloak. Miss Draper was in bisque crepe and lace, her hat a plaque of white chiffon, blue panne and black popples.

Mrs. Max Kotany and Mr. Kotany sought out the Walker party just before the finish. Mrs. Kotany's gown was of periwinkle-blue crepe, the skirt and bodice in wide tucks.

Henry Lackiand made the fourth in the Drummond party.

Mrs. Virginia Kayser was a very late arrival, not appearing on the lawn until the close of the game. She wore sage-green cioth, with a coat of black velvet faced with white satin and Flemish lace.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benolst, Mr. and Mrs. Mc-Kittrick, Mrs. Fischel and Miss Fischel, who is a debutante of the year, and Mr. and Mrs. Kolarles D. McClure and Miss Josephine Cobb were all very late, having first attended the University exercises. Mrs. McLure wore gray, with a rose-trimmed hat. Frederick Lehmann and George Markham also came over from the dedication to dine at the club.

Mirs. S. L. Swartz was much admired in a profusion of yellow lace, appliqued, and a little blue panne.

Moses Rumsey, Mrs. Rumsey, Miss Rumsey and Miss Queen Rumsey watched the game from seats near the Holmes patry.
